LOCAL POLITICS.

A Republican of this city has succeeded in obtaining the Know Nothing grand bailing sign from an unsuspecting Democrat, and proposes to test the memory of Smiley and Cowgill with it the first time he can get them cornered where no one can see them.

The town is full of live enthusiastic Republicans to-day, listening to the eloquent address of Major Calkins, our candidate for Governor. The meeting will greatly strengthen the Republican party. The speech of Mr. Calkins is substantially the same as that which he delivered at Richmond, and which we furnish in our supplement to-day. Read and circulate it. Keep the ball rolling.

The Know-Nothing-Mad-Road ticket of this county is getting sick, lame and blind. It also has the "heaves." Listen at it. Ugh!

Every day we hear of Democrats in this county who have declared themselves for the Republican ticket. Never before was there anything like it.

Captain Smiley is still haunted by his Know-Nothing ghost.

E. L. Scarlett, who has just returned from Salem, where he had been selling books, made a speech for the Republicans. He reports politics as being hot down there.

A. J. Beveridge left, Tuesday to fill appointments to speak at Montezuma, Bloomingdale, Hollandsburg and Rockville, speaking at the last place to-morrow night. He will speak here on the evening of October 4th at the Hall.

Hon. L. M. Campbell was in town Monday, and while here said to a Republican friend that he was not a candidate for Joint-Senator, but that he would be elected anyway, as the people were going to vote for him regardless of his own wishes. This means that he is a candidate, and if he persists in this determination it will be a great disappointment to his Republican friends here, from whom he can expect no support in such a course. It is given out that Mr. Campbell will make no pledges as to his action in the Legislature if elected, but Hon. John R. Gordon, the Democratic candidate for re-election to the Legislature, has said to a friend that if Mr. Campbell takes the race he can only do so on the understanding that he is to vote with the Democrats for United States Senator. We yet hope that Mr. Campbell will not allow his name to be placed upon the opposition ticket under any circumstances.

The Plumed Knights will have a business meeting at City Hall Monday night. Students and others are invited to meet with them and join. Arrangements will be made for additional uniforms and torches.

It was a large and enthusiastic audience which assembled here last night to hear the eloquent Irishman, Rev. G. W. Pepper, of Wooster, Ohio. He has recently returned from Maine, where he made twenty-five speeches, and the great victory there, as well as the cause he advocates, inspired him to one of the happiest efforts yet heard here. It was a masterly address, and provoked great applause.

Hon. M. D. White, of Crawfordsville, will speak at Roachdale, Saturday, September 20, at 7:30 p. m.

DEPAUW UNIVERSITY.

James A. Campbell, of the Senior Class, has been elected Professor of Penmanship in the Preparatory Department.

Samuel Doyal, a leading attorney of Frankfort, was here Monday, to place his son in college. Mr. Doyal was a classmate of the writer in the old N. W. C. U., at Indianapolis, twenty-six years ago. Time has dealt gently with him, and his appearance is as vigorous, and almost as youthful, as then.

A forty-five foot staff has been erected on West College from which to display a cold wave flag, when orders to do so are received from Washington. The flag is white, fifteen feet square, with a square black center, and when shown will indicate that a fall of temperature of twenty degrees or more is expected within twenty-four hours of its first display. The Signal office is already receiving reports from the Volunteer Weather Service over the State. Fifteen were received for last month.

Dr. Walter Barr, who was a student here for four years, and for six months a clerk in the Postoffice, came over from Bridgeport, Illinois, where he is engaged in the practice of his profession, last week, for the purpose of entering a younger brother in college. After a pleasant visit he returned home Tuesday.

The Educational Weekly has this to say of DePauw: "There has not been manifest in the history of any institution in this country, a more determined spirit of progress than now be seen and felt in connection with this enterprise.

A class in short hand will be taught by John P. Reasoner, probably under the authority of the University, beginning next Wednesday. Particulars at the book stores.

The report is again current that Mr. DePauw and Gov. Cumback will remove to this city and make it the place of their future residence.

The young men haven't been notable so far this term for their courtesy to the young ladies. They crowd to the front to secure their entry cards, leaving the girls to do the best they can. Prof. Basset's kindly consideration has sometimes come to the relief of the latter.

More than the usual number of old students have returned this year, and there is a much greater number of new ones. Illinois sends 80 or 90. Everything is booming about the University this week. All the Professors are here and in charge of their departments, except Prof. DeMott, who will not arrive from Philadelphia for a month yet.

The Volunteer Weather Service that has just been established at DePauw University under the Supervision of Prof. W. H. Ragan as Director, is in accordance with the purpose of the Chief Signal Office of the Army, to establish local State services in the several States, which will aid the Signal Service in collecting data, and at the same time afford a well organized system of stations, which will enable the Signal Service to distribute the information which may be collected to the best advantage; or, in other words, General Hazen, hopes by the co-operation of the State service and the Signal Service to make the latter more valuable to the people of the country.

The plan of the State service is to have a central State office and a State Director and at least one voluntary observer in each county, who will keep a record of temperature and rainfall, and report the same to the central office of the State at such times and in such ways as may be found most advantageous.

County observers wishing to make continuous record of wind force, humidity and the barometer will be aided in all possible ways, both by the State and Government Service; for such observations are locally of equal value to those of temperature and rainfall.

The State Director will be supplied from the chief office at Washington, with the instruments necessary for all the observations spoken of above at actual cost. These instruments will be compared with the government standards at the Chief Signal office, and a memorandum of errors of all will be furnished to each local observer, so that a uniform system of observations is secured for the weather service of the entire country.

The central State office will also furnish, free of charge, to all local stations the necessary blanks, instructions, Monthly Weather Review of the Signal Service, reports of the State weather service, and all other useful information communicated by the chief signal officer at Washington for that purpose.

Attention is asked to the following advantages of a State weather service: 1. It will bring the benefits of the signal service in the United States into every Indiana county participating in the State service.

2. It will be the means of soon securing better predictions of weather changes and of storms.

3. It will soon prepare Indiana for a system of storm signals displayed from railway stations that will be widely beneficial to the agricultural interest.

4. It will give to every county the government standards for temperature, rainfall, wind, velocity, humidity, etc., which are sources of useful public information.

5. It will put within the reach of local agricultural societies means of accurate observations which in the course of years, must be valuable to any locality in the study and adaptation of cereals.

6. It will bring the science and methods of the national signal service within the reach of the principal high schools of the State, offering teachers and pupils alike opportunities to study a wide range of the application of science to foster and protect agricultural industry.

7. For about $13.00 the instruments for temperature and rainfall can be secured. To take the observations requires but little time daily, and the exercise is especially agreeable to those that are interested in natural science. Any person so disposed will probably not find it difficult to raise the necessary means to buy all instruments wanted for a complete station at a county seat of each county, for various interests are to be served, and, in all probability, liberal people who naturally have an interest in useful science will cheerfully contribute towards such an enterprise.

Instruments necessary for observation by the State service and the signal service of the United States will be as follows:

Thermometer,	$2.50
Thermometer maximum, registering,	5.00
Thermometer minimum, registering,	4.00
Rain gauge, copper, iron over-flow,	1.25
Measuring stick,	.25
Total,	$13.00

THE PUTNAM COUNTY S. S. UNION.

In Annual Convention at Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 3d and 4th, 1884.

Through the courtesy of the city press this convention was widely heralded, the programmes were very generally distributed, the topics to be discussed were of vital importance to the Sunday-school cause, and the selected speakers were men and women of practical experience in the Sunday-school work. Nor was the promise of good things unfulfilled. The papers were excellent, and the discussions that followed among the little band of workers present resulted in many wise and helpful suggestions.

But, unfortunately, the convention was a flat failure. Why is it that a Sunday-school convention in Greencastle can not be made a success? Greencastle people were not the only ones that stayed away, either. Not one of our township presidents was present. Let each Sunday school worker who may read this stop a moment and reflect whether or not he or she is faithfully trying to help on the great cause.

The officers for the Putnam County Sunday-school Union for 1884-'85 are as follows: President, Judge F. T. Brown; Vice-President, E. T. Lane; Secretary, Flora T. Laughlin; Treasurer, Editha Williams; Presidents at Large, J. L. Seybold and J. B. Sellers, with David McCune and Isaac Perry, assistants. Township Presidents—Franklin, A. H. Pickens; Jackson, A. S. Mayhew; Russell, G. S. Durham; Clinton, George Hanna; Monroe, H. C. Darnall; Floyd, James Turner; Marion, J. W. Ragan; Greencastle, George Hathaway; Madison, Lemuel Johns; Washington, Samuel McCoy; Cloverdale, Nathan Fowler; Warren, J. B. Sellers; Jefferson, Mrs. Mary Allen; Mill Creek, Wm. Runyan.

It is earnestly and respectfully urged upon the Township Presidents by this convention that they hold township conventions at stated intervals, and that they be faithful, when called upon, with their respective reports of each school in their respective townships.

The committee on time, place and programme for the next annual convention consists of the county officers of the Union and the presidents at large. G. W. BAINUM, Pres't.

FLORA T. LAUGHLIN, Sec'y.

The Cave at Cataract, on Eel River. Correspondence of the Spencer Republican.

On the northeast side of the Lower Falls, just above the level of the river, a subterranean stream of water flowing from the great cliff of rocks. The hole from which it flows is nearly filled with water, wet or dry. It is said that it was the channel by which the fish from lower Eel river made their exit between the falls. We find all species of fish between the falls that we find below, but no bass, channel cat, eel, croppie, goggle-eye or Buffalo can be found above the upper falls. This has caused some investigation of the under passage. But just now I will say that fish would have no more falls outside or over the falls, than under. The water from above that helps to supply the subterranean stream passes down through a crevice in the rocks that make the above. Alva Shaffer, of Brazil, first entered these caves August 6, 1882, and last week he returned for further exploration. He found entrance No. 1 running due north, which he followed

New York Sun.
The drift of the silent vote, about which we hear so much, has not been from the Republican candidate to the Democratic. The movement is altogether away from Cleveland and toward Blaine. It is a very striking fact.

Mr. Cleveland was nominated not because the Democrats wanted him, but because the bolting Republicans wanted him; and their promise outweighed the certainty that his nomination would dispirit the Democracy. That disruption has come, and now the only question is whether the votes of the Republican recruits will equal those of the Democratic bolters.

We hold that Grover Cleveland is not fitted to be President, and that he has done nothing to merit such promotion. It is better for the Democracy to be defeated once more than to elect a man who is incapable of conducting his own party with disinterestedness and judgment, let alone reforming the Government.

It must go hard with a man who wore the blue and followed the flag in the war for the Union, to vote for Hendricks. It would be quite as consistent to vote for Jefferson Davis if he were a candidate. The fact is, of the two men Davis is the better.

THE NEWS.

CHOLERA.

Another death suspected to have been caused by cholera occurred in Rome. The situation at Naples, continues of a most distressing character. The dreadful epidemic increases hourly its ravages. A feeling of deepest gloom prevails the city. The misery and suffering among the poor are simply appalling. King Humbert was Wednesday prevented from visiting the poorer quarter of the city.

At Rome Thursday the government of the provinces have been ordered to cord the districts infected by cholera and prevent the local officials from forming lazarettos, or imposing quarantine regulations without the authority of the government.

During the twenty-four hours ended at 8 o'clock Friday evening, at Naples, there were 848 fresh cases and 356 deaths by cholera. Total number of deaths to date 3,000. Notwithstanding the official prohibition issued on Wednesday, there were several religious processions Thursday. King Humbert revisited the hospital, Friday. Several deputies have been attacked by cholera.

It is officially announced that during the twenty-four hours ending Wednesday night there were 721 new cases of cholera in the city of Naples, and 250 deaths. Since the beginning of the cholera outbreak in Naples there has been 1,100 interments in the cholera section of the cemetery. The condition is most harrowing, and scenes of misery and wretchedness of the most pitiful character occur on every side. King Humbert has been most profoundly affected by the sufferings he witnessed. He has made the first donation to the relief fund. Orders have been issued for troops to leave Maddalena barracks and encamp outside. The barracks have been converted into a cholera hospital. There was a riot Wednesday morning among the sellers of mineral waters, because their traffic was restricted. The epidemic continues to make great ravages. There is a complete breaking down on the part of the authorities in relation to help for cholera victims. Owing to the want of medical comforts and stretchers the sick are left abandoned in the streets, and no measures are or can be taken to remove the dead.

King Humbert and Duke Aosta arrived at Rome, Sunday, from Naples, and proceeded to Monse. They received an ovation, the crowd encircling them with storms of cheering, notwithstanding the fact that Minister Deprez telegraphed from Naples that the King would prefer a quiet reception. The King, in taking farewell of the Mayor of Naples, said he departed satisfied that the cholera was decreasing. A priest of the White Cross Committee, of Naples, has received offers of personal aid from all parts of Europe, but he intimates he has more funds than is needed. From midnight Friday till Sunday afternoon there were 1,299 cholera cases and 687 deaths at Naples. Since the beginning of the outbreak there have been 3,207 deaths. Sunday's bulletins show that in the last twenty-four hours, at Bergamo, there were 28 fresh cases and 12 deaths; at Caserta, 8 cases and 2 deaths; at Cuneo, 19 cases and 5 deaths; at Genoa, 43 cases and 32 deaths, including at La Spezia, 28 cases and 16 deaths. At various other points in the country there have been from one to three deaths. Dispatches of Wednesday, show that the cholera is rapidly abating in Naples and the gloom is diminishing.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

The Kennebec Journal, Monday, published the vote of the State, nearly complete, from official returns. The vote of this year is compared with the vote for Governor in 1880. Following is a summary.

Robie.....	77,779
Redman.....	58,070
H. B. Eaton.....	8,147
W. F. Eaton.....	188
Easton.....	1,157
Scotterling.....	95

Total vote for Governor.....146,138
Robie's majority over Redman.....19,707

Against a Democratic majority in 1880 of 169 for Finist over Davis. The total vote is the largest ever cast for Governor at any election, except one. The Republican gain since 1880, by the official vote, is 19,878, with eighteen small towns and plantations to hear from, the returns from which will not materially change the result. Four Republican members of Congress are elected, by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 6,000. The Legislature stands: Senate, wholly Republican; House, 116 Republicans, 14 Democrats, with one district to hear from.

The votes cast for the prohibitory amendment to the Constitution number 64,607, against 20,224. The amendment is adopted by a majority of 44,383.

Argument was heard in the United States Court, Saturday, upon the question of issuing a rule requiring Mr. Blaine to answer the interrogatories propounded in the Seniel's answer to the complaint for libel. The counsel for Mr. Blaine resisted the issuance of a rule, but stated that, voluntarily, the questions would be answered, and that soon. The court declined to issue the rule asked.

They will be glad to hear thy reverberations of your cheers and shouts to-night. Polish gens d'armes are guarding Skierniewic, and nobody is allowed to remain there without a permit signed by General Gourka. The three Emperors wearing Russian uniforms, Tuesday, inspected the Russian regiments, of which the Emperors of Germany and Austria are honorary colonels. After the inspection, the Emperors marched at the head of their respective regiments and formally saluted each other. The Czarina viewed the scene from the balcony of the palace. Immense crowds attended the memorial service of the Tabernacle in Salt Lake, in honor of the Mormon missionaries killed in Tennessee. They were exalted as martyrs.

Councilman F. O. Baltz, of Fort Wayne agent of the Louisiana Lottery Association, has been fined $100 in the United States Court, for sending lottery circulars through the United States Mail.

Ohio Falls, near Jeffersonville, is a lively place. Sunday afternoon, a game of base ball was played within a stone's throw of a Sunday-school, and farther on a prize fight and also a boxing match were witnessed by a large crowd.

There is a rumor to the effect that Commissioner Dudley will have the active management of the Republic campaign in this State after the Ohio election. He is now in Ohio, assisting in the fight in that State.

The Seymour manufacturing company has closed its works for an indefinite period, throwing about 100 men out of employment. The reason assigned for this step is that the market is overstocked with spoons, snaths, cradles, etc.

Ed. Grissom, a colored boy, having passed through successfully, all the branches taught at the school provided for colored children, has entered the Shelbyville high school. This raised the ire of some moss-backs, who are demanding that he be forced to return to his own school.

The coal miners of Rosedale and Minn-hall, Parke county, nearly four hundred in number, struck Tuesday. They demand an increase from 75 cents to 90 cent per ton, winter prices. It is very doubtful whether their demand will be granted as the company say they can not afford to pay it, and will not.

John C. S. Harrison paid over to the Marion county clerk the sum of $95,448.40, the amount of this indebtedness to the Indiana Banking Company, of which he was receiver, in accordance with the order of Judge Taylor last week. Mr. Harrison also resigned the receivership, and Judge Rand was appointed his successor.

Mrs. Frances Richie, of Vincennes, has sued William Fields, a well-to-do farmer, for $600. Mrs. Richie's son George went into Field's watermelon patch, with a crowd of boys, and Fields filled him full of shot. Hence the suit.

A jail delivery occurred at Danville Saturday night. Three prisoners who have been in jail some time on charges of burglary, escaped by sawing out of their cells and working through a heavy brick wall. The parties are Indianapolis crooks, and are supposed to have gone to that city.

While Mr. and Mrs. Perry Love, of Lynport, Pa., were absent from home, a servant placed their infant child in a room and went out. When the parents returned they found that the baby had been almost devoured by rats. One finger had been eaten off, and the flesh gnawed from the face and breast. The child had almost died from the loss of blood.

Early Sunday morning a party of Columbia City roughs stoned a house of ill-fame, and also fired a volley of shots from their revolvers. The mistress of the den fired in return. William Grand, aged twenty two, received a shot in the breast just above the heart. The ball went clear through the body, coming out near the spine. He now lies in a critical condition. William Jones, a town tough, was shot in the left knee, which will cause amputation of the leg. The house was badly used up.

H. S. Bennett, of the first district; M. Reeve, of the second; M. M. Hurley, of the third; W. H. Hart, of the ninth, and J. M. Watts, of the tenth, all of whom are postmasters, have resigned their places on the Republican State central committee. This step was necessary in order to comply with the civil service law which prohibits office holders from filling such positions. The vacancies will be filled shortly by the chairmen of the county committees of the five districts, who will meet and elect their successors.

There is a wide variance in the estimate of the Indiana wheat crop for 1884. The Indiana Farmer estimates the yield at 44,000,000 bushels; the state statistician thinks there will be at least 40,000,000 bushels, while the grain men are sanguine there will not be in excess of 35,000,000 bushels, with the probabilities at 32,000,000 or about 10,000,000 bushels below the statistician's careful estimate. By the way, Mr. Peelle of the statistical bureau, is deterred from completing his official report by the failure of the auditor of Washington county to make his report after repeated demands. The other counties have all reported, and these indicate a net yield in excess of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat.

It is the purpose of DePauw university to establish a volunteer weather service in connection with the United States signal service at Greencastle, and W. H. Ragan, director of the proposed DePauw service, suggests that all inclined to co-operate with and encourage the movement will please correspond with the director, who will at once furnish such information and details as may be of value in that connection. It is especially desirable that prompt information concerning unusual phenomena such as thunder storms, high winds, heavy rains, early and severe frosts, snows, etc., be transmitted to this office, from which valuable deductions will be drawn.

Badly Stuck.

"Why," he pleaded, "our very circumstances bind us together; our similar tastes, our friendship, long acquaintance."

"Yes," she replied, "even age could bind us together."

"What age, dearest?" he asked.

"Mauclage," answered she, gleefully. A minute later, as he passed up and down the room alone, he realized that his failure was complete.

"Is your table linen marked?" asked the washerwoman. "Oh, certainly," replied Mrs. Popinjay. "We have had blackberry pie right along this week and Mr. Popinjay spilled his coffee twice."

A CLEVER GAME.

The Clever Way in Which Western Sports Fleece the Unwary.

"It's a slick scheme, Billy, and will work eight times out of ten."

"Do you think so?"

"I know it. I tried it on six different parties in Pittsburgh, and it worked every time. You've only got to have the pawnbroker stand in with you."

Such was the bit of the conversation a St. Louis Post Dispatch reporter overheard while sitting at the table of a summer garden the other night. The two men who did the talking were sitting at an adjoining table with their heads rather close together, but grew so earnest in their conversation that inadvertently they spoke louder than they intended. "Come on," said the first speaker "and see." The two got up from the table and moved over to the bar, where they stood for some time in the midst of a little knot, drinking and talking. They were both dressed in the height of fashion, and their whole demeanor showed them to be gentlemen of the sporting fraternity. In a short time while the two appeared to be talking rather earnestly to the other young fellows who were apparently slightly under the influence of liquor. One of the sporting gentlemen had his watch in his hand, and there was an excited discussion about something. Money was drawn and deposited in the hands of one of the young gentlemen and the four left the garden together. The reporter thinking something in the wind, got up hurriedly and followed them. He saw them disappear around the corner and enter a pawnbroker's shop. Taking up a position on the other side of the street, he saw the four standing at the counter talking with a little fellow, who seemed to be examining the watch carefully. He said something, the sporting men smiled, the young man who had been stakeholder passed over the money, and the four came out into the street and entered a neighboring saloon. Soon the two sporting men emerged alone and hurried off down the street. The reporter crossed, entered the saloon and found the two young men talking to the barkeeper.

"I believe it was a put up job," said one.

"How do you say it occurred?" asked the other.

"We were taking a drink together, when two fellows came up and one of them into conversation with us. We had a few drinks together, when one of them said he and his friend were going to make a game of poker, but hadn't quite enough stuff. He then pulled out an old nickel plated watch for $15. He hated these d--n pawnbrokers and asked me if I would loan him $15 or it until to-morrow. I told him the watch was not worth more than $5. He laughed at this and said I evidently knew nothing about watches. I took it and examined it, works and all. It was a watch that could be bought for $7 or $8, and I told him so. He offered to bet $15 he could get $25 out of me from any pawnbroker. I took him up, and he put the $30 in my friend's hands. We then went into this shop and two doors below here, and he tossed the watch on the counter. The little fellow behind it asked him how much he wanted on it.

"Twenty-five dollars," he said in an off hand way. The pawnbroker pitched it down and shook his head.

"But just look at those works," said he in the same tone.

The pawnbroker again picked it up, took it to the light and examined the works with a glass. Then he came back and said he would let him have $20 on it. "No, sir. I want $25," said the other, "or nothing."

"Well, I will let you have it, but I could not lend a cent more."

He thereupon made out a ticket, passed him $25, and then he claimed the bet. Of course it was given to him, and we came in here to get a drink.

The barkeeper smiled, the reporter stepped to the front and told what he overheard in the garden, and the two men, merely saying thanks," left the saloon and hurried off in the direction the two sharpers had taken.

Revolutionary Service of Blaine's Grandfather.

Many stories are told of the unbending integrity of the grandfather of the plumed knight—Gen. Ephraim Blaine, of revolutionary fame, says a Chicago Herald gossipier.

When the patriot army was in camp at Valley Forge, Ephraim, who was commissary general, felt the necessity of something stimulating, and when Washington and La Fayette told him one day that they wouldn't mind if they had something, too, he considered it his duty to get the article needed if it was to be had.

Some six miles from the revolutionary camp lived a rich Tory whose cellar was known to be well filled. Ephraim concluded to make him a call. Taking five trusty continentals with him he marched to the mansion arriving there, curiously enough, about 2 A. M. The cellar door was fastened with a bar made of cordwood, and the general concluded he would go in a window, which he found could be easily forced. Once in the cellar he removed the bar from the door, and rolled a barrel marked "Jamaica" up a plank and out in the road. It was hard work, but what will not a man do for his country? When daylight came they were several miles away and fearing detection, they hid the barrel in a underbrush and went back in the camp for help. The next evening Ephraim started out with a team to bring in the rum, and every man in the valley sat up waiting for him.

Along toward morning, when everybody was spitting cotton, Ephraim's companion returned without him, also without the rum. Washington wanted to know what was up, and one of the men said that, when they found the barrel, Gen. Blaine who was mighty dry, bored a hole in it and absorbed some of the contents through a straw. The others stood by, asking for a crack at it themselves, but, as soon as he got enough, he broke up the straw and plugged up the hole, saying: "Let's get back home now, as quick as we can. It's wrong to steal liquor, and it's worse to drink it." The men then got mad and left Ephraim to bring in the barrel alone. "He'll be here in time," said one of them.

This explanation made the camp furious, and for a time the cause of the colonists looked very dark. Toward noon, however Ephraim appeared with his prize, the next day he was publicly thanked in general orders.

70,000 PERSONS DROWNED.

A Province in China the Scene of an Unparalleled Disaster.

The Whole Country Said to Have Been Inundated to a Depth of Sixty Feet.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—The San Pablo arrived this evening, bringing Hong Kong dates of Aug. 14, and Yokohama dates to Aug. 30. Information has reached Canton of a frightful inundation in Kang Sai province. The is dated from King Tad, the chief of the pottery manufacture, and on the great markets of the empire. The floods lasted four days, the entire country was submerged to a depth of sixty feet, and whole towns were swept away. It is believed that fully 70,000 persons perished. It was feared pestilence would follow.

The Execution of Henry.

Indianapolis dispatch to Julius R. Fredericks, who was sergeant in the Greely polar expedition, in the city. He denies the story that there were two factions in the Greely party, and says the men of the expedition were united and harmonious. There may have been cannibalism, but of this he has no personal knowledge. He gives the following account of the shooting of Henry. "Henry had been warned several times about stealing food, but he repeated the offense, and finally Greely issued an order for his execution. Three guns were loaded, and the order was given to fire. Fredericks, Long and Brainard were detailed to carry the order into effect. They took the guns and found Henry 150 yards away in the act of stealing seal skins. The three men approached within twenty yards, and the ranking man called out: "Henry, we are now compelled to carry out our orders." The men fired and Henry dropped dead.

A Tale of the Night.

San Francisco Chronicle.

It is dark. He steals up to the garden gate.

"My own sweet!"

"My dearest one!" Then the noise of kissing.

"Speak in whispers, dearest; the old man is not in bed yet."

"And do you love me?"

"Do I love you? I love you with a strength that would knock Sullivan out in one round."

"These stolen meetings are so lovely! Don't you think so?" More kissing. Then a voice from the house:

"Mary! Mary!"

"I'm coming, ma'am."

There is a rapturous parting. Then the young man as he steals off soliloquizes:

"Mary! I guess I made a mistake. That's the servant girl's name!"

An Elastic Stomach.

Placer (Cal.) Herald.

Reliable men of Forest Hill say that J. A. Miller possesses what might be termed a galvanized, elastic stomach. He could eat anything without nauseating him, and as for quantity it was never known exactly how much his stomach would hold. On one occasion, it is said he ate eight small cans of oysters, several cans of peaches, beef crackers, cheese and bologna sausage in proportion, and washed it down with eight or ten glasses of beer, and then afterwards, when asked to sing a song, he wanted to know whether they expected him to sing on an empty stomach. It is said also that he would sometimes catch flies and eat them down by the handful, just to show what he could do. At one time he ate a mouse head ears, and hair, on a wager of $1.50.

Col. Matson went to Washington city, and there was a suspicion his journey had something to do with his candidacy. And now is the proof. He went to the War Department and asked to be admitted to the status of claims in his District. Under the rules, a Commissioner Dudley to say that bly expediting of its considera-

"REMEMBER CHICAGO!"
The writer of the following letter has lately come over to Blaine and Logan. He is well and favorably known in this city, Bainbridge and Cloverdale, a fact that gives what he says additional interest:
"WAVELAND, Ind., Sept. 12, 1884.
To the editor of the Indianapolis Journal—
Some recent comments in the Boston
Pilot—an answer to a citizen of Maine about the Madigan stuff—impels me to ask some questions. I ask any Irish voter in Indiana why do the English hate Blaine and love Grover Cleveland?
Is the Boston Pilot so blind it can't see anything?
"Now I do not expect all the Irishmen to vote for Mr. Blaine, but I think there are enough to do it in Indiana to give the electoral vote of this State to that man who tells us in his letter of acceptance that this is not a Presbyterian country; that it is not a Free-will Baptist country; that it is not a sectarian country, but that it is God's country for Jew and Gentile alike, and that is why Irish voters should vote for James Gillispie Blaine.
"We will rest the case, Mr. Boston Pilot, on Maine. As Maine goes so goes the Union. Rest easy; we have not forgotten Chicago, July 11, 1884.
"I am a Democrat from the days of Governor Willard. Yours truly,
"J. D. HALEY."

A recent arrival from Ireland was wandering aimlessly along our streets looking at the stone fronts
and admiring the displays of beautiful goods in the store windows.
"How long have you been in this country?" asked a merchant with a benevolent smile.
"A couple of months."
"Have you found any work yet?"
"No; but there is a gentleman in Washington that is after gittin' me
a pension."

This probably explains our gallant
Col. Matson's recent trip to Washington, and gives some idea of the extent to which he is working the pension business.
For ten years a number of intelligent Irishmen of this city and county, such as Ed O'Hearn, Pat Goggin, John Murphy, James Downs and Thomas O'Connell have been taking the BANNER and reading it. It is useless for a Democratic paper, in the light of this fact and against their own knowledge, to undertake by garbled extracts, to prove that this paper has been against them in the past, for they know that it is not true. The effort only marks the desperation of our opponents. During all these years we have had only words of commendation from Irishmen who have read our paper, and who are better friends of Ireland and the Catholic church than is the Democrat or its editor.

C. D. Smith, the Postmaster at Manhattan, has resigned, and will remove to Kansas. His father, who was Postmaster there for more than thirty years, will succeed him. We greatly regret to part with Mr. Smith.
He is a reliable Republican, who is a strength instead of a weakness to the party, and he will be missed. It is the removal of so many Republicans to the West that has accounted for the Democratic majority in this county. But, still, we hope that the day of redemption is at hand.

The Democrats of the District know how Col. Matson violated his word in running for a third term.
This prepares them to expect anything from him in the way of trading off his fellow-candidates for votes for himself. At last they are beginning to discover that he is for himself, first, last, and all the time.
Every intelligent Democrat knows this to be true, and, if he is honest with himself and the public, he will not dispute it. Matson is for himself more than he is for the Democratic party.

Democrats everywhere in the District are busy telling soldiers that Matson got their pensions for them. They must think that the old soldiers have neither sense nor honor. The effort to control the soldier vote in this way is as much as to say that they are in the market for money, and are controlled by it instead of the principles for which they fought. They will resist the insult at the polls.

It seems to be as easy a matter for some men to make "patriotic speeches" to Union soldiers as it is for them to vote for Rebel soldiers.

Whatever the Democrats accomplish this year will be done without the aid of Indiana.

"BIG DRUG HOUSE."
The Indianapolis Journal, in copying our article on Matson and the Morrison bill to pension ex-prisoners of war, says—
"Let every honorably discharged Union soldier, and particularly ex-prisoners of war, read what the association of the latter. At a meeting held in Des Moines, thinks of the conduct of Representative Matson, Democratic chairman of the committee on invalid pensions.
Colonel Matson is a candidate for re-election, and is begging for the votes of the old heroes of the Federal Armies."
The action of those Iowa soldiers strikes our gallant Colonel under the fifth rib. He can no longer pose as the soldiers friend, except on the same pedestal with the Confederate Brigadiers.

A gentleman who visited this office Saturday said that last year an intelligent young Democrat of his neighborhood was induced to read the BANNER for a few weeks. It was so different from what he had been used to that at first he didn't like it; but it led him to investigate
some things, he found that its statements were correct, and then he subscribed for it. He is now a Republican.

Evidence multiplies of the terror of the gallant Col. Matson. He had an interview with an Irish-American fellow-citizen the other day, and finally said—"Well, if you can't vote for the whole ticket, for God's sake vote for me anyway. I have never done anything against you." "Nor have you ever done anything for me; your votes have been against my interests," was the reply.

Every tax-payer in Putnam county ought to be convinced by this time that they can no longer postpone, with safety to themselves and the public, the election of competent officials to take charge of county affairs, regardless of general politics.

The proof that Isaac P. Gray, the Democratic candidate for Governor, was a Know Nothing, is so conclusive that it is useless for his friends to deny it.

Never was a greater fraud perpetrated upon any people than the 9-foot so-called free gravel roads of this county. They are positive proof of the ignorance, stupidity, and incompetency, if not worse, of the officers who are responsible for them.
Will the people continue the imposition by continuing such a party in power?

How is it that the Murphys are being arraigned before the Grand Jury on the charge of having violated the liquor law, since they abandoned the Democratic party? It was never done before. And how can Democratic officials consistently engage in such prosecution who have themselves violated the law?

The old Know Nothing spirit still lives in the Democratic party. This is shown by their enmity toward John Murphy, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, whom they are making a greater effort to defeat than any other candidate on the ticket, and all because he happened to be born in Ireland.

No man has said harder things about Democrats than George W.
Julian, and now these same Democrats are rallying around and following after him and Carl Schurz, just as they did with Horace Greeley in 1872. And the result will be the same.

This country never made any laws
protecting naturalized foreigners, returning to the land of their nativity, until the Republican party came into power. Previous to that time they were subjected to great annoyance and many hardships.

One of the best speeches being made in this campaign is that of Gov. Porter, in which he shows up the iniquity of the last Legislature, and the narrow partisanship of the Democratic party.

The Almighty thinks too much of this country to make any such man as Grover Cleveland its President. He will be the worst beaten candidate who ever ran for that office.

The 3d Indiana Cavalry will meet

vant a dog that he should receive

THE YOUNG VOTER
Advice to the Young Men Who will Vote
First as to Where to Cast Their Ballots.
Lieut.-Governor Hanna at Gosport.

"Young man, you should consider well before casting your first ballot. If you start to voting right it will be of great advantage to you in after life. If you vote with a party that is proud of its past history—a party that can take great satisfaction in recounting its record in the war for the Union—a party that is pleased with its candidates, a party that is active, progressive, and determined to be for America and Americans, if you will join such a party as that, your future life will not be a political burden to you.
"Young man, if you should join the Democratic party, you will find many dissatisfied and disappointed old men—
many discontented and restless young men. Young man, do you know that the youngest Democrat in this country that ever voted for a Democratic President is forty-nine years of age!

"It has been twenty-eight years since the Democratic party elected its President, and unless that party means its ways, it will be twenty-eight years more before it even has a chance to elect a President.

"Intelligent, enterprising young man,
don't go into the Democratic party.
There is no room for you there. The company is not the kind for you to keep. Look at the Democratic party—
the solid South is there, the free-trader is there, the Mormon is there. The Bourbon is still there, who never learns anything or forgets anything. The Copperhead Democrat is there. The guerrilla is there. The men who murdered draft officers are there. Thence who burned colored orphan asylums are there. The shot-gun and rifle clubs are there. The issue ballot is there, old Bill English is there. Hendricks is there, Cleveland is there. Tilden is there, Jeff Davis is there. Young man,
don't go into the Democratic party.

Don't you see it is no place for you?
Don't be a Democrat just because your father was a Democrat. I heard an Irishman in my town say that there was no need of a young man being a Democrat just because his father was a Democrat—no more use of it than there was for a young man to be a bachelor just because his father was a bachelor.
My young Democratic friend, let me tell you a secret. I was a Democrat once myself, in my younger days, and an orthodox one at that; that is my father voted for Polk and Pierce, but when I heard of the Republican party
when I heard of Fremont and free homes for free men, I fell in line under the Republican flag, and have been following it ever since, and I am glad of it.

"Young man, turn your face to the State of Maine and cast your political future with the Republican party, and you will always be proud of that act—a party since it has come into power that has known no defeat; that in the struggle for supremacy in the last quarter of a century has been the survival of the fittest. A party whose motto is equality before the law and at the ballot box. A party that gave homes to the homeless,
that crushed secession; that obliterated
human slavery; that made it impossible for a slave to exist beneath our flag in the domains of our Republic; a party that believes in protecting American labor and American industries; a party under whose administration our country has grown rich and prosperous, has increased more than fivefold in wealth in the last thirty years, and to-day our republic is the greatest and grandest nation beneath the sun. Young man,
if you will join the Republican party,
you will be urged on to greater and nobler deeds, you will be stimulated by the examples and memories of the actions of the great fathers in the Republican party—the apostles and martyrs of freedom—you will be surrounded by men who keep pace with the spirit and progress of the age—who believe in the sacredness of the home—by men who would crush the vile head of slavery; by men who do now and have always kept step to the music of the Union; by men who believe in America and Americans.

"You will be cheered on to greater duty by having in charge the soldiers of the Union, blessed with the prayers
and tears of their widows and orphans.
You will have upon your shoulders the hopes and fears of 4,000,000 of men made free by your party.
"Young man, look at the great names
the Republican party has given to America and the world: John Brown and Thaddeus Stevens, Sumner and Stanton, Morton and Wade. Then the long list of Presidents—Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, and next November, James G. Blaine, of Maine."

Under Democratic free trade protection British rule chains sold for $1.25 per pair, and the money went to build up British monopolies.
Under Republican protection, such chains sell for 65 cents, and the money remains at home and helps to create a market for the American farmer.

Under Democratic free trade the wages of the laborer was three to four bits a day.
Under Republican protection the wages of the laborer is $1.25 to $1.50 per day.
Wages are higher, farm products are higher, and manufactures are lower,
and people are better off under Republican protection than under Democratic British free trade, for the reason that Republican protection does protect.—

It is thought that the colored school building will be occupied week after pupils enrolled in the colored school.

At the same time two colored children

Several weeks ago A. T. and Milt.
Hillis hired a man named Charley Burns to canvass the county for their patent fence, they furnishing him with a horse and buggy to travel with. He started out, and that is the last they have seen of him. Officer Stone brought the team from Indianapolis Tuesday, where Burns had sold it, but he got no trace of the fence agent.
Many of the students have arrived

very inconvenient to do without them for many reasons. Mr. Brattin is pre-

On Thursday Mrs. Samuel Tally, of Fox Ridge, while eating dinner, fell from her chair, and expired in about fifteen minutes. She revived sufficiently before dying to recognize her friends.
She was a middle aged woman. For some time she had been subject to heart disease, and this probably caused her death. She had previously made a will leaving her property to a brother's son, who is blind.
A gentleman who came over from Illinois, to place his son in college, was greatly impressed with the many advantages of Greencastle. He said it is the most desirable place for a residence he has ever seen anywhere. The beauty of the location particularly pleased him.
Add to this its healthfulness, its society, educational facilities, and its proximity to the leading markets of the country, and it will be seen that Greencastle can well claim superiority over most other towns of the West. Beginning at 9 o'clock each morning we are to receipt all through the day, until 6 p.
m., of the leading daily newspapers, East, West, North and South, of the country, so that in this respect, as in most others, we have every advantage and every facility for enjoyment possessed by the metropolitan cities.

About three weeks since Marshal
Starr received a telegram from William Donihue, of Bloomington, stating that his sixteen-year-old daughter had run away with one Black Chandler, and requesting him to arrest them. Subsequently it was learned that they had gone to Illinois. Thursday morning as the officer was on his way home from Terre Haute on the 3 o'clock train, he discovered the runaways on the train, and took them into custody. The girl was taken to a hotel, and the young man lodged in our $40-000 jail. The latter was liberated the next day. The father of the girl telegraphed Marshal Starr to hold her until he arrived, but as he failed to come the Marshal obtained transportation for her from the township trustee and sent her home.

The Greencastle Iron and Nail Works made 2,800 kegs of nails last week. This was one of the biggest week's work ever done in the mill. The boys say they want "protection," and will have

There is much alarm among the em-

works have been erected in Wheeling, W. Va., to make steel nails, which are better and can be sold cheaper than those made of iron. If these nails fulfill the expectations of the workmen they will supersede the iron.

FARMERS certainly err seriously, says the New England Farmer, when they spend valuable time using worthless tools; but it is of little use to urge a man to plow his land well when we know that he has not a tool on his farm fit to work with. Our advice to a man who proposes to make farming a business would be to sell off many of his old tools occasionally by auction, or to men who have but little use for farming tools, and replace them with the best, well-tested new styles he can find. A new plow-point may cost fifty cents to $1, but it may enable the plowman and team to earn $2 where the old one would not earn $1. Poor plowing by the use of a worn-out plow may diminish a crop very materially.

If applicants for divorces were treated in this country as such persons are said to be in Afghanistan there would be fewer cases recorded. An Afghan woman having asked for a divorce because her husband was becoming bald-headed, the Amerer, with the wisdom of Solomon when the two women claimed the same child, decreed that the bare head of her husband should be anointed with sour milk, which the women should lick off until the scalp shone like polished brass. The wife was then to ride through the bazaar on a monkey with her face averted. Finally both husband and wife were solemnly warned to dwell together in harmony. If divorces were as difficult to obtain here there would be fewer occasions offered and fewer applications made.

Only by enforced privation does man learn that he need not be incessantly stuffing himself. Men and women eat to indulge sensual appetite, not to keep up physical energy. They stuff in all they can bear, and shorten the space between eatings as much as they can. The experiment has yet to be tried to see what food, and at what intervals, is needed to sustain life the highest energies. A persevering attempt to widen the intervals of eating, like that which has shortened them, might in a few generations lift us up to the high plane of the Mexican diamond-back rattlesnake, who feeds but once a year. To eat when it is not required for nutrition, is a sensuality more gross than the ravenous beasts. To eat when it is hurtful is still more gross. When man shall eat only to live, his spiritual rise will be like a sky-rocket, and his wife will not be kept down to the office of a feeder of beasts.

Now that a new trotting record has been made, it is interesting to note the slow progress made in cutting down the seconds. Forty years ago, 1844, the best time was 2:26 1/2, made by Lady Suffolk. This record was unbroken for twelve years, when, in 1856, Flora Temple went a second better. Three years later the same mare cut down the record to 2:19 1/2. JAY GOULD.

How the Great Railway Magnate Appears in His Office.

New York Letter in Albany Journal.
"Seventy-one Broadway, up-stairs, turn to your right," said a gentleman of the required weight. "If you want to see Jay Gould, your chances of getting a glimpse of the great railway magnate will be as scarce as the earthquakes in New York." Your representative walked through the long hall, up stairs, turned to his right, and the ruddy philosopher was about correct. The entrance to Mr. Gould's office is through a little private room, where, upon entering, one of the gentlemanly clerks will ask your business, and if it is not very important, the chances are an apology will be offered that Mr. Gould "is out." I was more fortunate. Seeing the name of E. C. Clark on an office window joining Russell Sage's and knowing Mr. Clark was an Albanian not many years ago, I deemed my chances of interviewing Mr. Gould were brightened. After informing the gentleman of my wishes, he expressed himself pleased to do the mission. Out of his office through a back way we approached a narrow little door, and rapping on the window three times, if I remember correctly, it was opened apparently by some magic arrangement which the Hindoos would deem to be the action of some spirits not earthly. The door was quietly closed by a patent air closer. The first room entered was nearly filled with telegraph wires, and here skilled operators are sending Mr. Gould's orders with electric rapidity. The next room is Mr. Gould's, and there the neat little man was found in his shirt sleeves directing his many enterprises. He gave order after order to buy certain stocks, and directions as to details connected with his railway system, discussing at the same time with Roscoe Conkling, Cyrus W. Field, Comor and others, in regard to "Manhattan," and all the while keeping an eye on the "ticker." How this man can go around the world would be the greatest wonder to me. Without a question he is the greatest leader in the "street" to-day, and should he step down, while there is no doubt that some one might take his place, it would be a long day before it would be filled. The many stories that I had read and heard of Mr. Gould made me anxious to know if he was really as bad a man as painted. To my surprise I found him a pleasant man, just like the rest of us. In height he is about five feet five inches, weighing say 118 or 120 pounds, and one of the most magnetic talkers I ever listened to, and without any question a gentleman of the greatest excitability of any man on the globe. I believe with Mr. Perkins, of the Traders and Importers' Bank, who said to me to-day "that Gould, with his long head, has carried us through a panic which, if he had allowed it to extend, would have been greater than '73." After talking stocks fifteen minutes or so, and allowing him to tell "all about it," your representative was shown the banking department, which is similar to any other.

Small Profits.

Detroit Free Press.
"For clothing peesness," he replied, as he wiped his face with a red bandana and sat down on a two dollar trunk at the door, "what you might call blayed out. It vhas hardt scratching to make a tollar."

"But people wear clothes all the time." "Oxactly, but people haf changed a good deal. Some vhas vhas all for style, and dey go to a tailor to get a fit. Odder people buy ready made clothing, but so many of us vhas in der peesness dot it vhas hardt sledding. Eafery man who come into my place expects to beat me down. Eafery man look der goods all oaf for cotton, and it vhas hardt to deceive him."

"What do you ask for that tweed suit?" "Vhell, my first price on that suit vhas $14. After I talk for ten minutes I drop to $12. If der customer begins to pull out cotton fibres I make der price $10, at vvhich I put my hand on my heart and assue him dot I lose oaf der tree tollar."

"But if he doesn't take it." "Vhell, I go outt und my wife sells it to him for $9 as a great favor. Der vhas no more profit in tweed suits. Hadt to pay $4 in Rochester."

"I suppose you make up on trunks and satchels."

"Make oop? Vhy, man, it vhas dot part of der peesness vvhich ruins me! Look here! Here vhas a trunk mit a patent lock un-all conveniences dot I ask $4 for. If I doan' get so much I drop to $3. If der gentleman says he vvhill look around a little, I tell him to take it along for $2, but it vhas such a loss my children cry all night long."

"They must cost you nearly that?"

"Vell, I haf an uncle who makes der wood work, a brudder who puts on der lock, a sister who papers der inside, und my fadder screws on der hinges, und by sweeping outt my own store I vvas able to buy dot trunk for sixty cents."

"Do you ever let a customer go out without buying?"

"Vuell, I doan' remember of soppit a calamity. If I can't sell him, my wife comes in und tries it. If she cant sell him, her sister comes in und speaks like an angel. Sometimes a man vvas sharp as steel. He vvhants an $18 suit for $12. He knows dot we haf to sacrifice peesness our stock vvas too large, und he banas off unds he peats aroundt, und I finally close der bargain und assue him dot I leat for der County House to-morrow."

surrounds the muscle of the eye. When a near object is to be looked at, this muscle relaxes and allows the lens to thicken, increasing its refractive power. The inner and outer muscle to which I referred, are used in covering the eye on the object to be looked at, the inner one being especially used when a near object is to be looked at. It is, in the three muscles mentioned that the fatigue is felt, and relief is secured temporarily by closing the eyes or gazing at far-distant objects. The usual indication of strain is a redness of the rim of the eyelid, betokening a congested state of the inner surface, accompanied with some pain. Rest is not the proper remedy for a fatigued eye, but the use of glasses of sufficient power to render unnecessary so much effort to accommodate the eye to vision.

"When do eyes begin to age?"

"At about the 10th or 12th year of life, when they have reached their full development. At the age of 45 or 50 the lenses cease to thicken, when the pressure is removed and old sight begins."

"Will a child who has to use glasses ever outgrow the custom?"

"Not as a general thing, but other glasses of different thickness will be used. Sometimes have occurred where children outgrow the use of glasses. Second sight, or the apparent recovery of strength of vision, is a change, in elongation, in the shape of the eye-ball, by which the person becomes nearsighted, accompanied by the change in the lens caused by the appearance of a cataract."

ILLINOIS ITEMS.

Rayno Huber, a tramp, arrested at Farmer City for numerous thefts, has been sent to the penitentiary for three years, two days after his capture.

William Williams, at Shawneetown has been sentenced to twenty-five years in the State prison for the murder of Soerates Tucker. The case has excited great interest.

Thomas Martin, of Jerseyville, in jail at Carrollton, charged with rape, and who attempted suicide a week ago by drinking bedbug poison, was successful after all. He hanged until Saturday and then died.

Young Brothers' large paper and paint house, at Quincy, suffered loss by fire, Saturday morning, from $5,000 to $8,000. The fire originated from spontaneous combustion. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

Two men were stopped by highwaymen on Sunday night, at Alton. George Bortman was relieved of a gold watch and chain. The second man showed fight when stopped, and fired twice at him without effect, when he ran, escaping without injury.

The extensive flouring mill and wheat elevator, situated at Waterloo, Monroe county, Ill., owned by Kehler Bros., burned Monday, together with thirty or forty thousand bushels of wheat and six hundred barrels of flour. Loss about $200,000; insured for $100,000, largely in Eastern and foreign companies.

Governor Hamilton proclaims a reward of $200 for the arrest of L. C. Chandler, of Chandlerville, Cass county, who is indicted in Morgan county for forging notes and mortgages to the amount of $9,000. Chandler was a member of the Thirty-second General Assembly of Illinois.

At Illiopolis the dry goods store of W. A. Mathews & Co. was robbed on Saturday night by Henry Bradford, a colored man of Detroit. He succeeded in carrying off some $200 worth of silks and clothing. He was sent to jail at Springfield. The goods, excepting the clothing, were recovered.

At Pearl, Thomas Johnson attempted to shoot Smith Hoover, in Bill Sink's saloon, but the revolver failed fire, and he began pounding Hoover with it, whereupon Hoover drew his knife and stabbed Johnson six or seven times, one being behind the ear, which proved fatal. The two men had gambled all night and were intoxicated.

twenty-five miles from Quincy. The brothers named James, William Samuel Holden, quarreled six years with an unknown man who was his outright in an affray. Which of the brothers struck the fatal blow is not known but a deadly feud has since existed between James and William. Monday the difference culminated in a fierce battle for life between the two. A citizen named Finley interfered, whereupon James deliberately raised a revolver and shot him dead. The murderer then fled. Wm. Holden was arrested and is in jail. The Holden family has a bad reputation. The murdered man was highly respected. N. C. Thompson's bank at Rockford closed Tuesday morning. A notice was posted on the door of the bank, signed "N. C. Thompson, president," reading as follows: "Owing to the stringency of the money market, I am unable to meet my obligations as they mature and am compelled to suspend. Believing from common experience that an assignment would result in unnecessary losses to creditors, I have determined to apply my assets directly to satisfy the debts. If and course shall not meet my creditors' approval, as soon as accurate lists of the property and liabilities can be made, I shall be glad to meet my creditors in consultation as to how their interests can best be subserved." The liabilities are stated to be half a million, the assets include stock in the N. C. Thompson Manufacturing Company, and are believed sufficient to cover all liabilities.

A terrible accident occurred at Morton, Ill., Tuesday evening, resulting in the death of three, and perhaps four, and the injury of several others. Steam apparatus in the wagon factory, Volcott, Rossie & Fadiker was being used in the manufacture of cider, when suddenly the boiler exploded with terrific force. The debris of the wrecked building took fire and was consumed. The explosion caused the instant death of the engineer, Jacob Hagle, and a boy named Brisieler. The bodies of the others are underneath the smoking ruins. Christian Ackerman had his skull badly fractured, breast bone crushed, several ribs broken and was scalded in a terrible manner. Death to him will be a merciful relief. Henry Rossie had his shoulder broken, two ribs fractured, and an eye destroyed. Besides being badly scalded, George Lawrence is scalded from head to foot and no hopes of his recovery are entertained. A number of persons who were standing in and about the factory were more or less injured. The cause of the explosion is supposed to be criminal neglect on the part of the engineer, who allowed the water in the boiler to run down too low, and filled then suddenly with cold water, a mistake for which he paid his life. As near as can be estimated Tuesday evening the loss will be $10,000 to $12,000.

FARMERS certainly err seriously, says the New England Farmer, when they spend valuable time using worthless tools; but it is of little use to urge a man to plow his land well when we know that he has not a tool on his farm fit to work with. Our advice to a man who proposes to make farming a business would be to sell off many of his old tools occasionally by auction, or to men who have but little use for farming tools, and replace them with the best, well-tested new tools he can find. A new plow-point may cost fifty cents to $1, but it may enable the plowman and team to earn $2 where the old one would not earn $1. Poor plowing by the use of a worn-out plow may diminish a crop very materially.

If applicants for divorce were treated in this country as such persons are said to be in Afghanistan there would be fewer cases recorded. An Afghan woman having asked for a divorce because her husband was becoming bald-headed, the Amerer, with the wisdom of Solomon when the two women claimed the same child, decreed that the bare head of her husband should be anointed with sour milk, which the women should lick off until the scalp shone like polished brass. The wife was then to ride through the bazaar on a monkey with her face averted. Finally both husband and wife were solemnly warned to dwell together in harmony. If divorces were as difficult to obtain here there would be fewer occasions offered and fewer applications made.

Only by enforced privation does man learn that he need not be incessantly stuffing himself. Men and women eat to indulge sensual appetite, not to keep up physical energy. They stuff in all they can bear, and shorten the space between eatings as much as they can. The experiment has yet to be tried to see what food, and at what intervals, is needed to sustain life the highest energies. A persevering attempt to widen the intervals of eating, like that which has shortened them, might in a few generations lift us up to the high plane of the Mexican diamond-back rattlesnake, who feeds but once a year. To eat when it is not required for nutrition, is a sensuality more gross than the ravening beasts. To eat when it is hurtful is still more gross. When man shall eat only to live, his spiritual rise will be like a sky-rocket, and his wife will not be kept down to the office of a feeder of beasts.

Now that a new trotting record has been made, it is interesting to note the slow progress made in cutting down the seconds. Forty years ago, 1844, the best time was 2:26½, made by Lady Suffolk. JAY GOULD.

How the Great Railway Magnate Appears in His Office.

New York Letter in Albany Journal.

"Seventy-one Broadway, up-stairs, turn to your right," said a gentleman of the required weight. "If you want to see Jay Gould, your chances of getting a glimpse of the great railway magnate will be as scarce as the earthquakes in New York." Your representative walked through the long hall, up stairs, turned to his right, and the ruddy philosopher was about correct. The entrance to Mr. Gould's office is through a little private room, where, upon entering, one of the gentlemanly clerks will ask your business, and if it is not very important, the chances are an apology will be offered that Mr. Gould "is out." I was more fortunate. Seeing the name of E. C. Clark on an office window joining Russell Sage's and knowing Mr. Clark was an Albanian not many years ago, I deemed my chances of interviewing Mr. Gould were brightened. After informing the gentleman of my wishes, he expressed himself pleased to do the mission. Out of his office through a back way we approached a narrow little door, and rapping on the window three times, if I remember correctly, it was opened apparently by some magic arrangement which the Hindoos would deem to be the action of some spirits not earthly. The door was quietly closed by a patent air closer. The first room entered was nearly filled with telegraph wires, and here skilled operators are sending Mr. Gould's orders with electric rapidity. The next room is Mr. Gould's, and there the neat little man was found in his shirt sleeves directing his many enterprises. He gave order after order to buy certain stocks, and directions as to details connected with his railway system, dismissing at the same time with Roscoe Conkling, Cyrus W. Field, Comor and others, in regard to "Manhattan," and all the while keeping an eye on the "ticker." How this man can go around the world would be the greatest wonder to me. Without a question he is the greatest leader in the "street" to day, and should be step down, while there is no doubt that some one might take his place, it would be a long day before it would be filled. The many stories that I had read and heard of Mr. Gould made me anxious to know if he was really as bad a man as painted. To my surprise I found him a pleasant man, just like the rest of us. In height he is about five feet five inches, weighing say 118 or 120 pounds, and one of the most magnetic talkers I ever listened to, and without any question a gentleman of the greatest excitability of any man on the globe. I believe with Mr. Perkins, of the Traders and Importers' Bank, who said to me to-day "that Gould, with his long head, has carried us through a panic which, if he had allowed it to extend, would have been greater than '73." After talking stocks fifteen minutes or so, and allowing him to tell "all about it," your representative was shown the banking department, which is similar to any other.

Small Profits.

Detroit Free Press.

"For clothing peesness," he replied, as he wiped his face with a red bandana and sat down on a two dollar trunk at the door, "what you might call blayed out. It vhas hard scratching to make a tollar."

"But people wear clothes all the time." "Oxactly, but people had changed a good deal. Some fous vhas all for style, and dey go to a tailor to get a fit. Older people buy ready made clothing, but so many of us vhas in der peesness dot it vhos hard sledding. Eafery man who come into my place expects to beat me down. Eafery man look der goods all oaf for cotton, and it vhas hard to deceive him."

"What do you ask for that tweed suit?" "Vhell, my first price on that suit vhas $14. After I talk for ten minutes I drop to $12. If der customer begins to pull out cotton fibres I make der price $10, at vvhich I put my hand on my heart and assue him dot I lose oaf der tree tollar."

"But if he doesn't take it."

"Vhell, I go out and my vvhife sells it to him for $9 as a great vvhale. Der vhas no more profit in tweed suits. Hadt to pay $4 in Rochester."

"I suppose you make up on trunks and satchels."

"Make oop? Vhy, man, it vhas dot part of der peesness vvhats ruins me! Look here! Here vhas a trunk with a patent lock unall conveniences dot I ask $4 for. If I don't get so much I drop to $3. If der gentleman says he vvhill look around a little, I tell him to take it along for $2, but it vhas such a loss my children cry all night long."

"They must cost you nearly that?"

"Vuell, I haf an uncle who makes der wood work, a brudder who puts on der lock, a sister who papers der inside, and my fadder screws on der hinges, and by sweeping out my own store I vvas able to buy dot trunk for sixty cents."

"Do you ever let a customer go out without buying?"

"Vuell, I doan't remember of sayng a calamity. If I can't sell him, he comes in and tries it. If she can't sell him, her sister comes in and speaks like an angel. Sometimes a man vvas sharp as steel. He vvhants an $18 suit for $12. He knows dot we haf to sacrifice peesness our stock vvas too large, and he hanzs off unds he peats aroundt, und I finally close der bargain und assue him dot I leaf for der County House to-morrow."

A Mighty Powerful Storage Battery.

Chicago Herald.

"You didn't know I was an inventor, did you, boys?" inquired a drummer of his companions on a Pan-Handle train. "Well, I am though. Have got a big thing, too. Got it right here under my seat. It beats the Kelly motor all to pieces. Do you see this little box? What if it isn't bigger than a hat-box. Now, I'll take the lid off and show you; oh, you fellows need not jump off the train. I know how to handle it, and there ain't any danger."

"What do you call it?"

"It's a storage battery—the most perfect and powerful storage battery ever constructed. I had it made in New Jersey. Before taking the lid off I'll turn the box over and show you—come back here. I tell you there is no danger—and show the label."

The box was turned over, and on its bottom the trembling drummers saw this inscription: "2 qts. N. J. applejack."

While a prominent oculist of the city and a Pittsburg reporter were conversing, a young lawyer walked up, and, accosting the former, said: "My eyes feel very much fatigued. What had I better do for them?" The oculist gave him some instruction about glasses, and when he had gone away, said: "People speak about their eyes being fatigued, meaning that the retina, or seeing portion of the brain, is fatigued, but such is not the case, as the retina hardly ever gets tired." He was asked to explain, and continued: "The fatigue is in the inner and outer muscles attacked to the eyeball and in the muscle of accommodation, which

The oculist gave him some instruction about glasses, and when he had gone away, said: "People speak about their eyes being fatigued, meaning that the retina, or seeing portion of the brain, is fatigued, but such is not the case, as the retina hardly ever gets tired." He was asked to explain, and continued: "The fatigue is in the inner and outer muscles attacked to the eyeball and in the muscle of accommodation, which surrounds the muscle of the eye. When a near object is to be looked at, this muscle relaxes and allows the lens to thicken, increasing its refractive power. The inner and outer muscle to which I referred, are used in covering the eye on the object to be looked at, the inner one being especially used when a near object is to be looked at. It is in the three muscles mentioned that the fatigue is felt, and relief is secured temporarily by closing the eyes or gazing at far-distant objects. The usual indication of strain is a redness of the rim of the eyelid, betokening a congested state of the inner surface, accompanied with some pain. Rest is not the proper remedy for a fatigued eye, but the use of glasses of sufficient power to render unnecessary so much effort to accommodate the eye to vision.

"When do eyes begin to age?"

"At about the 10th or 12th year of life, when they have reached their full development. At the age of 45 or 50 the lenses cease to thicken, when the pressure is removed and old sight begins."

"Will a child who has to use glasses ever outgrow the custom?"

"Not as a general thing, but other glasses of different thickness will be used. Sometimes have occurred where children outgrow the use of glasses. Second sight, or the apparent recovery of strength of vision, is a change, in elongation, in the shape of the eyeball, by which the person becomes nearsighted, accompanied by the change in the lens caused by the appearance of a cataract."

At Pearl, Thomas Johnson attempted to shoot Smith Hoover, in Bill Sink's saloon, but the revolver failed fire, and he began pounding Hoover with it, whereupon Hoover drew his knife and stabbed Johnson six or seven times, one being behind the ear, which proved fatal. The two men had gambled all night and were intoxicated.

A seven year-old daughter of Ira Young, residing at Carrollton, has not eaten anything for twenty-nine days. She has been afflicted with throat disease, and cannot be made to take and retain any food. The physicians think the girl cannot recover, although no change in her condition has been noticeable within the past ten days.

A colored preacher named Hill has been arrested at Alton on suspicion of the murder of a colored man named Will Hams, in St. Charles county, Missouri. It appears that Williams was married about a year ago to a widow, and that Hill was also a suitor for her hand. Since the wedding Hill had made threats against both Williams and his wife. These threats couched with the further fact that on the day of the murder Hill was seen prowling around Williams' farm with a shotgun, ostensibly hunting, led to his arrest.

At Freeport, the New York House stable, valuable property, was fired four times, and a fifteen-year-old girl named Lizzie Edwards, who was employed at the house, after overhearing a conversation in which suspicions were pointing to her, fled to the river and attempted suicide by drowning. She was rescued and was placed under arrest, as was also an old hostler named John Richman. The girl at first stoutly maintained her innocence, but finally acknowledged that she set the building on fire. She is in jail but the old man was released.

A cold blooded murder was committed Monday in the village of Augusta, twenty-five miles from Quincy. The brothers named James, William and Samuel Holden, quarreled six years ago with an unknown man who was killed in an affray. Which of the brothers struck the fatal blow is not known but a deadly feud has since existed between James and William. Monday the difference culminated in a fierce battle for life between the two. A citizen named Finley interfered, whereupon James deliberately raised a revolver and shot him dead. The murderer then fled. Wm. Holden was arrested and is in jail. The Holden family has a bad reputation. The murdered man was highly respected.

N. C. Thompson's bank at Rockford closed Tuesday morning. A notice was posted on the door of the bank, signed "N. C. Thompson, president," reading as follows: "Owing to the stringency of the money market, I am unable to meet my obligations as they mature and am compelled to suspend. Believing from common experience that an assignment would result in unnecessary losses to creditors, I have determined to apply my assets directly to satisfy the debts. If and course shall not meet my creditors' demands, as soon as accurate lists of the property and liabilities can be made, I shall be glad to meet my creditors in consultation as to how their interests can best be subserved." The liabilities are stated to be half a million, the assets include stock in the N. C. Thompson Manufacturing Company, and are believed sufficient to cover all liabilities.

A terrible accident occurred at Morton, Ill., Tuesday evening, resulting in the death of three, and perhaps four persons, and the injury of several others.

Steam apparatus in the wagon factory Volcell, Rossie & Fudiker was being used in the manufacture of cider, when suddenly the boiler exploded with terrific force. The debris of the wrecked building tore fire and was consumed. The explosion caused the instant death of the engineer Jacob Hagle, and a boy named Brisieler. The bodies of the others are unrecognizable in the smoking ruins. Christian Ackerman had his skull badly fractured, breast bone crushed, several ribs broken and was scalded in a terrible manner. Death to him will be a merciful relief. Henry Rossie had his shoulder broken, two ribs fractured, and an eye destroyed. Besides being badly scalded, George Lawrence is scalded from head to foot and no hopes of his recovery are entertained. A number of persons who were standing in and about the factory were more or less injured. The cause of the explosion is supposed to be criminal neglect on the part of the engineer, who allowed the water in the boiler to run down too low, and filled then suddenly with cold water, a mistake for which he paid his life. As near as can be estimated Tuesday evening the loss will be from $10,000 to $12,000.

Household Hints.

Egg shells clear coffee as well as the egg itself.

When soaking salt fish before cooking, add a little vinegar to the water; it improves the fish.

Don't waste your time scouring your bread-pans; bread never bakes as well in a bright tin. Indeed, the best bread pans—if one can afford to have made—are oblong ones made of Russia sheet-iron.

A practical housekeeper recommends oiling kitchen floor with boiled linseed oil, to be applied boiling hot with a large paint brush, and in few moments rubbed in and off with wadded cloths. Greasy spots do not show.

Put your clothes in warm water at night; in the morning wring them out into a boiler containing strong soda, to which is added salsoda the juice of a hickory nut. Boil them one-half hour dip them into cold water, rub them out in clear, cold water, then in water slightly blue, and you will be surprised to see how easily your washing is done.

Matting will last for years if it is given a thin coat of varnish when it is first put down, and if the varnish is renewed about every six months. The varnish preserves it, and besides give it quite a handsome look. Matting is growing in popularity as a floor covering, and the patterns are much prettier than the old ones, and there is greater variety of them.

Heart and Home gives the following remedy for toothache: Melt white wax or spermaceti, two parts, and when melted add carbolic acid crystals, two parts; stir well till dissolved. While still liquid immerse thin layers of carbolic absorbent cotton wool, and allow them to dry. When required for use a small piece may be snipped off and slightly warmed when it can be inserted into the hollow of the tooth, where it will solidify. The ease produced by this simple remedy is really very great. Another remedy, which frequently gives relief and is recommended by a physician is equal parts of chloroform and spirits of camphor.

Catching a Tartar.

"Did you go to the Palmer house and interview Mr. Haebrook, of the Kansas City Times?"

"Well, y-a-a-s."

"Make about a column of it."

"Oh, but he wouldn't be interviewed."

"What's that?"

"No, sir; he got me to subscribe to his paper and then said he had another engagement. So he walked off, leaving me without any interview and $4 out of pocket."

The fifty-third birthday of Jordan Grider was celebrated at his residence Monday. A neighbor had induced him to go away from home to attend to some business, and on returning he found that his relatives, friends and neighbors had arrived in his absence and taken possession, bringing with them great quantities of the most toothsome victuals. Never was a man more surprised. One feature of the dinner, was that every one seated at the first table was a grandparent, there being sixteen present. Grandmothers were plenty. One little granddaughter of Mr. Grider had five grandmothers present, and two were not able to come. After dinner the presents were brought out, and a few appropriate remarks made by Mrs. Turner, Mr. Grider responding in a very feeling manner. Then music was the order of the day, and finally, after devotional exercises, in which Mr. Stokes led, the company, forty-three in number, dispersed.

Hibbs & Co. will finish burning their first kiln of brick to-day. They have had much trouble by the breakage of machinery, and the inadequacy of their engine. But these things, and some other defects, will soon be corrected, and it is believed that the enterprise will then be a success. As yet they have only made 23,000 brick a day, but with a good engine they will easily make ten thousand more. It takes two weeks to fill a kiln, and about ten days to burn it.

The Warren Township Soldiers Reunion.

The second annual reunion of the soldiers of Warren township was held last Saturday in Mr. Lewis' beautiful grove near Putnamville and was largely attended by Warren and adjoining townships. The day was cool and a refreshing breeze added much to the comfort of the participants. The exercises of the day were very entertaining, and consisted of martial music, band music by the Poland Star Band, vocal music by the township choir, and speeches by Maj. J. Birch, D. E. Williamson and S. A. Hays.

The gentlemanly bearing, the fine appearance and the good music of the Poland band boys were praised by all. Their music was very appropriate, consisting of medleys and war marches such as the old soldiers were used to march behind. It was rendered in such a style as to fire the spirit of patriotism in the hearts of the old boys, and made them feel as they did twenty-one years ago, when the air of the whole land was laden with the "smell of gunpowder," and was reverberating from hill to hill and from ocean to ocean with the notes of the war march and the rattle of musketry. Equally so were the soldiers fired by the singing of those grand old war songs by the choir; the reminiscences of Maj. Birch, and the patriotic speeches of D. E. Williamson and S. A. Hays. The interesting feature of the day was the declamation by little four-year-old Roy Bailey. Many were seen with tears trickling down their cheeks, so affected were they by the young orator's recitation.

The crowd was so quiet and attentive as to be a credit to any gathering. Yet everybody seemed to enjoy themselves, and departed feeling they had indeed had a good picnic.

Mrs. Lewis, a widow of a soldier of 1812, and the mother of two soldiers of the Rebellion, in whose grove the gathering was held, and the Poland band, have the thanks of the old soldiers who fought in '61. The next annual reunion will be held on the 23d anniversary of the battle of Antietam. In that battle Company I, 27th Indiana Volunteers, which was made up in Warren township, lost many of its number in killed and wounded. W. G. P.

A Swindler—Who Makes the Money?

Indianapolis News.

There is a grievous complaint over the changes in the school text books. Some half-used books of last year are to be thrown away. A knot of "freemen" were discussing the situation to-day. One of them said that "only the rich men and the beggars could send children to the schools, for the self-dependent poor couldn't afford to buy so many books."

"Another was mad because, he said, 'they wouldn't let his boy come to school unless he had a Dixon pencil.' Last year it was an 'Eagle' pencil, and last Monday many pupils went back with that brand. A patron of the Indiana school says his child was sent home because she had an 'Eagle' instead of the 'Dixon.' 'White's arithmetic' is another source of trouble. The arithmetic in use last year, and which was reported superior by Prof. Mills, Joshua Staples, and other competent persons, has been discarded for 'White's.' Why does not appear—at least on the surface.

Louisiana Politics.

New Orleans Special to New York Sun.

The Republicans to-day healed all their differences and united on a joint electoral ticket. There have been three parties in the field claiming the right to manage the Republican campaign—the regular or original Republicans, the representatives of the Sugar Planter's Convention, which decided that Blaine ought to be supported on the tariff issue, and, lastly, the Blaine and Logan protection clubs, nearly all the members of which were Democrats before the present campaign. It was decided that each of these several factions should have an executive committee and conduct a campaign of its own, to be generally supervised, however, by the regular Republicans. The electoral ticket will be evenly divided between the old Republicans and the new converts, former Democrats, who are supporting Blaine in this campaign. The Democrats are threatened with several ugly splits in the Congressional districts.

A few persons object to the price of their home paper; they think it is too high, and say they can get a large city paper for $1 a year, in clubs of twenty. That is true; you can do so. But when you have these large papers they are, so far as you, your county and towns are concerned, worthless. They buy up a private citizen in New York, Philadelphia, or some other large city, but that does not increase the price of your land. Neither will they encourage your business men, build churches, school houses, railroads, pikes or other improvements, as your county paper does. It is like the man who works on your farm; he is worth more to you than a man who works for some one else. Papers work for the people wherever they are published, and by subscribing for these papers you help them and not yourself. You say, "I can get a larger paper for fifty cents less." Yes, but you lose more than ten times that amount by not patronizing your home paper, as it encourages the improvement of your county, making your land more valuable if you wish to sell it, making a better market for all home products, and benefitting your community in every possible way. Indeed, there is no direction in which a good county paper does not help you.

Hon. John E. Lamb had a meeting at Knightsville Saturday afternoon. An effort was made to raise a pole, during which the ropes broke. In its fall the pole struck two men named Perry Lemay and William Harklew. George Martin afterward ascended that part of the pole, when up, to untangle the ropes attached to it. While engaged in doing this he slipped and fell a distance of thirty feet, breaking his back. The two first have since died, and Martin's condition is thought to be hopeless.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of the well-known Celebrated Essay on the Restoration of Manhood, or the treatment of the various forms of Sexual Weakness, Impotency, Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also Consumption, Epilepsy and other self-indulgence, or sexual abuse, etc.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured, pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and safely.
